Some Baseball Talk By HALF NELSON.

It is just as well to remark at this stage of the game that The Times-Dispatch scorer of the Virginia League baseball games in Richmond is the holder of no office in the league, and therefore is not consumed with the desire to make the Richmond baseball players star unduly in newspaper columns when their performance; have only been good on the field. The scorer or intends giving the Colts exactly what they make. It hardly redounds to the credit of the scorer to give a player three putouts and six assists when that player figures in only six plays during the whole game.

Not being the league official scorer in the stage of the game of the scorer to give a player with the word have to speak quick or San Antonio, and, by the way, old Stingley the stage of the game of the scorer to give a player with Richmond, is advising the San Antonio management as to players, wired that the terms were accepted and the matter was thought to be closed.

In the meantime Lipe decided that the price was not too high if it could not be lowered, and finding that San Antonio was willing to pay it, wired Secretary Farrell that he would take Ison. San Antonio had written accepting the terms and Lipe's wire heat the letter by time enough to close the deal. Now Lipe is happy.

the letter by time enough to close the deal. Now Lipe is happy.

Jack Lawior was looking mournful, ly over the field yesterday afternoon chewing the reflective oud over what the physicians had just told him about his ankle. The ankle won't be worth much to him for some time yet, as the ligaments in that locality appear to have been torn. He will have to be as careful as a cat of the ankle to keep those ligaments from being torn more and there will be no more cavorting for him for probably weeks. He has got his eye on the game, however, and as King seems to be holding down the job pretty well, the country is at least tolerably safe.

Curley Brown is still suffering with he charley horses, but they are getting better. The portion of the team that is in his right leg seems to be about well, and the left is coming around under treatment. He will probably play before the week is out, although his services as a ball wiper will be most valuable in case it rains.

From the way the Tars played be-

From the way the Tars played behind Walker early in the week, and the rumors have almost become certainties in the mouths of those wise ones who know almost everything, the Richmond boy is not getting what is coming to him. The Tars have made errors without number behind Walker so far, and every game ne has pitched, in spite of his good work, has been somewhat of a flasco. If Win Clarke can't handle the situation there is something wrong with the game.

The statement that in all probability Landgraff would be let go and Shaw taken on in his place, which was published this week sounds sweetly foolish to those old wise heads that sit behind the catcher in the grandstand. Not that Shaw hasn't shown up well, but Landgraff has shown up just about as well as he could except in baserunning, and it would seem that half of his base running errors should be saddled on the coachers. Of course, this is merely a tentative statement, because, not being official scorer, the writer can only see what is pulled off on the diamond.

JEFFRIES SHOWS SPEED.

Hetired Champion Gives Sparring Partmers a Grilling Session.

Ben Lomond, Cal., May 12.—In today's bouts with Armstrong and Choynski Jeffries presented each of his sparring partners with a discolored eye. The retired champion continued to show the speed which marked his work yesterday, and gave each of his partners a grilling session.

Armstrong came out of the battle with a severely bruised face, with a half-tirth square of skin peeled of near the eye. Landing each in rapid succession on Choynski's right eye, Jefries caused the optic to change color almost instantly. When time was called in the final round Choynski was bleeding from the mouth.

Real Mudlarks.

Verbout and Hannifan were both in great form, which, combined with the effect of the downpour on the batters, held the hits down to the bottom. Portsmouth pulled off three singles, all of which came together, and the Colts could only get two, also close to each other, in the fifth inning.

Hannifan took the matter in his own hands in the third inning, when, with two men out he rapped out a classy single that Verbout couldn't think about swinging on to. Bowen came next with a clean one that gave Shaw the opportunity of making a beautiful stop with the bare hand, but he had reached so far to stop it that he couldn't get it to first in time. Then Toner smacked out a good one that sailed past Landgraff to Timan.
